

Contents:

6 Introduction

Sezgin Boynik and Minna Henriksson

Framing of nationalism and contemporary art

12 Boris Buden: Why not: Art and contemporary nationalism?

18 Sarat Maharaj: Merz-Thinking: Sounding the Documenta Process between Critique and Spectacle

34 Miško Šuvaković: Outlines – Nationalism in post-soviet epoch: inquiries on art as technology and implementation of collective self

40 Rastko Močnik: Identity and the arts

Cultural policies and nationalism

56 Simon Sheikh: Battle lines are being drawn – The cultural politics of identity in Denmark

64 Mika Hannula: Saying It Ain't Doing It – Critical Reflection on Nation-State, Cultural Policy and Contemporary Visual Culture

71 Marita Muukkonen: Between a Rock and a Hard Place: Art Institutions and Creative Industries

90 Margaret Tali: Why have there not been any Russian artists in the contemporary art field in Estonia?

97 Marina Gržinić: Linking of theory, politics and art

Case studies

111 Kobena Mercer: Ethnicity and Internationality – New British Art and Diaspora-based Blackness

126 Ivor Stodolsky: Cultural Geopolitics in the New Russian Intelligentsia – A Case Study of Timur Novikov, Artist and Cultural Ideologue, 1958 – 2002

154 Paul Wilson: Banality as Critique: Contemporary Photography and Finnish National Landscapes

176 Erden Kosova: The Problematic of National Identity and Social Engagement in the Contemporary Art Practice in the Balkans

214 Sezgin Boynik: Theories of Nationalism and Contemporary Art in Kosovo

238 Nebojša Jovanović: If I were an Artist: An Instructive Postmodernist Bosnian Fairy Tale

248 Suzana Milevska: Mapping in inverse perspective

256 Interview with Branislav Dimitrijević: "Actually anti-nationalism is also nationalism, but better than the nationalism which provoked it"

263 Biographies